

Of FBI Here Dies In South

Special to The Sun-Times
NEW ORLEANS — A former chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Chicago office died in his home here of a coronary thrombosis, it was learned Sunday.

He was Guy
Banister.

GUY BANISTER

Mr. Banister, who had operated a private detective agency here for several years, died Sunday. Mr. Banister was special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office from February to December, 1934, when he resigned.

Mr. Banister began his law enforcement career in 1927 when he joined the Monroe (La.) police force. He became an FBI agent in 1934 and served in Butte, Mont.; Newark, N.J.; New York; Indianapolis; and Minneapolis.

After leaving the FBI, Mr. Banister was hired to head the training and special investigations branch of the New Orleans Police Department. He became assistant superintendent of police here before being fired for his part in a quarrel in a French Quarter bar.
